Why Do I Need A Home Security System?

Crime Deterrence

Having a home alarm system is one of the best deterrents available to prevent burglaries and home invasions. Unfortunately break-ins are on the rise in our community. Joblessness, drug and alcohol addictions, and gang activity all fuel residential break-ins. Law enforcement advise installing a home alarm to help deter burglary attempts.

Family Protection

The most common reason why someone has an alarm system installed in their home is for protection of their family. It provides peace of mind knowing that your home and your family are protected. An alarm system will help protect you against home invasions.

Panic Situations

Your alarm systems can be equipped with a panic button on the control panels. The panic button will still work even if the alarm is turned off. This gives added protection if an emergency arises and a phone cannot be reached to call the proper authorities.

Out of Town Protection

Home owners that travel for work find having an alarm system gives them added protection when they are away for extended periods of time. Since the home is monitored 24 hours a day when the alarm is turned on your home is continually protected. Proper authorities will be notified if there is a problem in your home. The monitoring station will also notify you as well. Consider investing in a type of alarm that allows you to control your system remotely with your Smartphone or computer.

Fire Protection

A fire can be devastating, not only to a home but to a family. If a fire breaks out in your home, our monitoring station will alert the proper authorities within minutes. Early detection can help reduce the damage to the home. More importantly it gets help to family members or pets who may be in the house and unaware or unable to call for help.
